

Settling vehicle loan can be unsettling

June 22, 2022 @ 2:25pm

In comparison, when I cleared another loan with another bank, it was painless and it's done along with the release letter in less than an hour.- NSTP/ZAIN AHMED (for illustration purposes only)

LETTER: I have been hounded recently by a bank over a car loan that I thought had been paid off.

The bank threatened to repossess the car.

So, I called the bank to find out the situation. They checked and as I suspected, it has almost been fully paid except for a final payment.

Even the officer that checked my situation was aghast that so much effort has been expended for a loan that is short of just one payment.

After waiting for two hours, I got to the counter where they informed me that before they could accept the final payment they needed to check if there was an outstanding amount.

So, we waited for another two hours but the bank branch failed to get to anyone related to vehicle loans and they are unable to check online.

In the meantime, I will continue to be hounded for RM800 until the bank gets its act together. When can I find another four hours to waste, only God knows.

In comparison, when I cleared another loan with another bank, it was painless and it's done along with the release letter in less than an hour.
