BROILER FARMERS: Boycott inhumane chicken farmers

2009/07/27

MEGAT SHAH RIZAL NOOR IKHSAN, Johor Baru

I AM getting sick of the callous actions of chicken rearers or poultry farmers who released 4,000 chicks in the rain just because they felt they did not get their share of an incentive scheme introduced because of the current economic downturn.

Previously they were reported to have destroyed many chicks just because prices were too low. We should no longer tolerate such inhumane actions.

It shouldn't be tolerated by the government and consumers. I would like to know who they are so that we can avoid buying from such callous human beings.

If necessary, I will even vote not to consume chicken until these farmers change their attitude.

I hope the consumers associations are able to prepare a list of poultry farmers or companies which treat their livestock humanely. I will buy from them and, rest assured, I will boycott the other inhumane poultry farmers.
