Time for patrols

21 Feb 2007
M.S.N. Kuala Terengganu

IT is unfortunate that pristine sandy beaches in the east coast are marred by our attitude and behaviour.

I was standing on a beach in Terengganu surrounded by rubbish left by our people who have scant pride in our heritage.

On one side is our abhorrent attitude in discarding rubbish everywhere and anywhere.

On the other is the lackadaisical enforcement that is only noticeable during campaigns.

It is time Malaysia organises regular beach patrols, manned by local authorities and the local village community.

The locals should show greater pride in their localities and surroundings and should ensure visitors have that same pride.
